EU Safety Data Sheets

You have requested Safety Data sheets for edding products.

According to the European legislation on chemicals (REACH) Safety Data Sheets are necessary only for preparations (inks) for writing, drawing or any coloring purposes that are sold in containers.

Finished products like markers and writing instruments are considered as articles and not as dangerous goods or as preparations and therefore the issuing of Safety Data Sheets is not necessary.

The information in the Safety Data Sheets refers to the handling with bigger quantities of the loose ink. Therefore only the refill ink bottles that contain loose ink have to be marked accordingly. Even the refill ink bottles contain comparatively small quantities of ink and therefore a large part of the information in the Safety Data Sheets is not relevant.
